

SUSTAINABILITY

This green philosophy is often accompanied by a purification of the processes, which has the effect of introducing a philosophy of excellence in the company. Far from being a merely decorative issue, logistics operators are enhancing the care of the planet through their processes. Moreover, the interest of customers in the environment also invites them to continue working on it. This concern explains the growing implementation of less polluting vehicles, the development of new fuels, the implementation of more ambitious legislation and the concern to rationalize routes and avoid unnecessary fuel consumption. Businesses are asked to discover what is most beneficial for them by combining sustainability with their dreams for the future. When one desires change, then one is passionate about it, and when one feels, then one acts. Logika complies with all of the above respecting the environment and the sustainability of our planet.
